MEMORANDUM FOR: [REDACTED] Central Intelligence Agency Member,
NIRB Map Study Group

SUBJECT : Interagency Map Procurement Program

1. The National Photographic Interpretation Center depends on the CIA Map Library to provide foreign maps and charts for use in the exploitation of photography. Maps and charts are important to the photointerpreter if he is to determine the location of the intelligence he is extracting from satellite or aircraft photography. Center photointerpreters receive from the CIA Map Library all foreign maps and charts of areas not produced by domestic agencies. We use at least 32 different types of maps and charts in order to exploit film we receive.
